

Japs Attack In Wild Fight On Okinawa; Yanks Hold

By ROBBIN COONS
Guam, May 5 (AP)—In one of the wildest battles of the Pacific war, Japanese hurled amphibious forces, the first major tank-led counterassault of the Okinawa campaign, suicide boats, planes and pilot-guided flying bombs at American forces yesterday 325 miles south of Japan.

Every attack was broken up, but five light U. S. ships were sunk and others damaged. Hundreds of the 4,000 attacking Japanese soldiers were slaughtered in "the best day of Jap killing since the Okinawa campaign began," 154 planes shot down and 15 explosive-laden speed boats blown up.

Hand to Hand Struggle
Under cover of early morning darkness four Japanese amphibious units, totaling about 600 men, attempted landings behind American lines on both coasts. Three of these assault forces got ashore on the west coast in the rear of the 77th Infantry Division. Hours later they were still there, but they were trapped and being wiped out.

Boats carrying 200, constituting the fourth group, were stranded on a reef off the east coast. Yanks in amphibious tanks annihilated them. More than 3,000 Nipponese attacked 7th Division positions on the east flank at dawn behind 20 tanks and under the protection of the campaign's heaviest enemy artillery barrage. Big American guns smashed the tanks. Seventh Division infantrymen stopped the charge in fierce hand to hand battles and grenade throwing duels.

Coordinated Attacks
All of the ground actions were coordinated with an air-sea attack on U. S. fleet and supply units offshore. Suicide boats, their bows packed with explosives, corked into the fleet before dawn. They succeeded in damaging only one American ship.

Bombers attacked the Yontan airstrip, causing some damage, and joined kamikaze (suicide) pilots, in raiding the fleet. Some bombers loosed baka bombs—glider-type bombs guided by suicide pilots. Fifty-four attacking planes and one baka bomb were shot down by ship's guns and combat air patrol. Intercepting carrier aircraft brought down 96 planes, and four others were wiped out in isolated actions.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the combined air and suicide boat assault sank five light units and damaged others—he didn't say how many. That makes 24 U. S. surface craft sunk since the Ryukyus islands campaign began March 18.

LOCAL AIRMEN FREED AS NAZI WAR PRISONERS

Two Gettysburg air force members are listed among a group of Pennsylvanians as having been liberated as prisoners of the Germans, by Lee McCordell, war correspondent for the Sun newspaper in Baltimore, in an article appearing today.

They are Sgt. George R. Lee, son of Mrs. Bessie (Vaughn) Lee, and a brother of Mrs. Jennie E. Boyd, both of 232 West Middle street, who had been a prisoner of the Germans since October 9, 1943, and S. Sgt. Eugene S. Purnell, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Huber Purnell, 305 Baltimore street, who was shot down March 1, 1944, while on a bombing mission.

Prisoner Since October, 1943
In his article sent by radio from the Third Army on Friday, McCordell states the list was turned over to him by John Herrell, Newsweek war correspondent, who saw the men in a forest about five miles southwest of Braunau where they had been given up by German guards on the approach of American troops.

SGT. GEORGE R. LEE

Sgt. Lee was first reported missing in action over Germany on October 9, 1943, and on November 15, 1943, his mother received a War Department telegram informing her that her son was a prisoner of the Germans.

Sgt. Lee enlisted in the Army in 1941. He was a radio operator with the Eighth Air Force. He went overseas in April 1943. Lee graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1939.

His Brother In Army
Purnell was a turret gunner on a Flying Fortress when he went down over northern France. A repatriated buddy of another crew recently wrote to the Purnells informing them their son was "on the loose" for 30 days before being picked up by the German gestapo. He was then shipped to a prison camp. The Purnells last received a letter from their son on January 15 stating he was a prisoner in Stalag 17-B, Vienna.

S. Sgt. Purnell entered the service in November, 1942, and went overseas in January, 1944. A brother, Pvt. Frederick Purnell, is now serving in Germany and a brother-in-law, S. Sgt. Ray J. Polasky, is serving in Panama.

The Purnell family moved here from San Francisco, Cal., in October 1943. Mr. Purnell is employed on the war mapping program.

YORK SPRINGS HIT BY STORM

A severe storm struck York Springs and vicinity Friday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Lightning struck a pole of the Metropolitan Edison company in Huntington township just outside the borough and burned the top completely off. The section between York Springs and Gardners was without light and power until after dark.

Lightning struck in the house of Andrew Miller, Huntington township, and the shock broke 55 window glasses, loosened the roof and the storm tore part of the roof off the house. Mr. Miller who is confined to a wheel chair and his wife who is also crippled were alone at the time. The stroke passed through their radio and knocked it across the room. Window glass were broken in several homes nearby.

The storm was accompanied with rain and hail. Hail fell for about ten minutes in the borough and covered the ground.

The community was also without telephone service Friday night.

Residents described the storm as one of the worst they had ever witnessed.

WAR TELEGRAM TELLS FAMILY SON IS FREED

Pfc. McKenrick

Pfc. Charles Robert McKenrick, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKenrick, 340 West Middle street, who had been a prisoner of the Germans, "has returned to military control," according to a War Department telegram received by his parents this morning.

McKenrick had been reported as missing in action on the western front since December 20, 1944. A letter and card was received in January from Pfc. McKenrick revealing he was a Nazi prisoner. Official notification that he was a prisoner was received from the War Department by the McKenricks Friday. The telegram revealing his liberation followed today.

Pfc. McKenrick has been in service for over two years and overseas for about 18 months.

McKenrick served with a tank unit of the 28th Division of General Hodges' First Army.

LT. W. C. ROBINSON, NATIVE OF TOWN, TAKES NAZI CITY

A German colonel surrendered a Nazi town to a platoon of anti-tank troops commanded by Lt. William C. Robinson, Jr., native of Gettysburg and son of Dr. and Mrs. William C. Robinson of Decatur, Ga. The young officer's description of the surrender to his unit of the Ninth army is contained in a recent letter from the battlefield.

The town, which was not identified for security reasons, was located beyond the Rhine and Weser rivers, and apparently capitulated about April 14.

Lt. Robinson wrote: "Day before yesterday I had one of the most interesting experiences of them all when a German colonel surrendered all of his troops and a fairly large city to us. He came about five miles to meet me. He was led by a motorcycle courier bearing a white flag and himself riding in a command car also bearing a white flag. Three hours later he returned as agreed and led us into the city."

German police, who were soon disarmed by the conquering Yanks, held back the crowds which included many unarmed German soldiers. Fearing a trap the Americans kept their machine guns ready for action. No incident occurred. Each member of the platoon came off with a German Luger pistol as a souvenir.

DAMAGE FROM LATE FREEZES ACCUMULATES

Indications were today that the county fruit crops for the season will hit a new low for the past several years, as orchardmen continued to add up the damage of the latest killing frost Wednesday morning.

County Farm Agent M. T. Hartman said today the situation definitely was "serious," although it still was too early to paint an all-over picture of county damage. Some orchards he said have suffered almost total loss from the accumulated effects of the several frosts in April and last heavy freeze on Wednesday morning.

One fruit grower from the western part of the county estimated this morning that the cherry crop probably would be only one-fourth of normal and in some cases probably less. While the apples and peaches probably were not so hard hit, he said, they still were very spotty in many places, and there will be a considerable reduction in those crops.

Other crops also were damaged by the frost. One farmer at the market this morning reported that a large crop of beanplants which had grown from three to four inches high were completely frozen off. Another large grower of tomatoes had more than 50,000 tomato plants which had been planted the day before killed off by the freeze.

Norway And Austria Garrisons May Quit

Stockholm, May 5 (AP)—The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau reported from Oslo that the capitulation of German troops in Norway would be announced today.

London, May 5 (AP)—Reuters said today that Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz had broadcast the admission that German armies were surrendering and "it is senseless to fight on."

By TOM OCHILTREE (Associated Press War Editor)

Negotiations were reported well underway today for the surrender of Germans' two remaining pockets, in remote Norway and the Czechoslovakia-Austria sector, as the war in Europe whirled into its final hours.

The battlefield surrender of all German forces in the Netherlands, northwestern Germany and Denmark to Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 21st Army Group became effective at 8 a. m. (2 a. m. Eastern War Time).

The fold up of these forces in the north left the German army with roughly 500,000 men, or only six per cent of its top strength. Germany itself, her cities in ruins and manpower reduced by years of fighting, was one of the most completely shattered powers which ever lost a war.

What was left of the German army was showing a preference for surrendering to the British and Americans rather than to the Russians.

Climax of Long Campaign

As negotiations for the capitulation of the enemy forces in northwestern Germany, the Netherlands and Denmark were completed yesterday, Montgomery said that he had flatly rejected a Nazi offer to surrender to the Allies three German armies facing the Russians.

"Those armies are fighting the Russians," he said. "If there is any surrendering to be done it should be to the Russians."

After the Germans had signed the surrender order in a tent on a heath south of Hamburg, Montgomery winked at a group of correspondents and muttered: "This is the moment." It was the moment which climaxed the Briton's spectacular pursuit of the Nazis across Africa and France and finally into the heart of the burning Reich itself.

BULLETINS

London, May 5 (AP)—The free German radio station in Moscow today quoted Dr. Hans Fritzsche, captured lieutenant of Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels, as saying Hitler's body "has been hidden in a place which will be impossible to find."

Stockholm, May 5 (AP)—Jubilant Denmark, free of the Nazi yoke worn for five years, was reported already forming a new government today with a view to taking a place among the United Nations.

Moving swiftly after the unconditional surrender of German troops in the little kingdom, 71-year-old King Christian X was said by the Danish Radio to have designated former Premier Orla Buhl to organize a new government.

Cool and infant daughter, of Fairfield; Mrs. Earl Hawk and infant son, of Taneytown; Mrs. George Smith, 129 West High street; Mrs. Lloyd Rau and infant son, Vernon Francis, Orrianna; William Thompson, Gettysburg R. 1, and Larry Keith Kennedy, Biglerville.

Allied Air Force Busy

Austria had been halved by the plunge of U. S. Seventh Army troops through the Brenner pass to a union with the U. S. Fifth Army's veterans of the Italian campaign. Berchtesgaden, Hitler's fortress in the Bavarian Alps, was seized and cleared.

In the final enemy pocket in northern Germany the last remnants of the German Ninth and 12th armies surrendered to a single division of the U. S. Ninth Army—the 102nd Infantry.

Fliers of the Allied Balkan Air Command continued harassing battered Nazi columns fleeing northern Yugoslavia yesterday.

V-E DAY VITAL DATE IN LIVES OF MILLIONS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Associated Press War Analyst)
V-E Day, despite the fact that it is arriving as an anticlimax, still represents one of the most important moments in the lives of millions of folk.

It means the end of casualties which have continued even in the closing stages of hostilities. It brings countless thousands of homes closer to the glad time when their boys will come back.

V-5 Day indeed means great thanksgiving and rejoicing—and who would try to dampen that? The consensus of America seems to be, however, that the occasion shouldn't be one of unrestricted celebration, because of the unfinished tasks before us.

It's well that we recognize our work isn't done, but there seems to be a tendency to underestimate its extent. To many people, the sole remaining job is that of completing the defeat of Japan—already so handsomely begun—and that's a mistaken idea which should be put right.

European Shakeup

V-E Day in the last war—Armistice Day—did indeed signal the end of the world conflict. But this second World War is a catastrophe of an entirely different calibre. The end of the fighting in Europe, and the ending in due course of the Pacific warfare, have ceased to mean finalities but will present merely completed incidents in the general upheaval which is ushering in a new era for mankind.

Europe is torn by an unprecedented destruction of human life and property. Its economic structure has been shattered. Much of it is suffering real hunger.

The whole set-up of balance of power as we knew it has been knocked into a cocked hat. Germany and Italy have disappeared as great powers. France is just beginning to recover. Russia is emerging as the dominant power of the eastern hemisphere. Britain has ceased to be the policeman of Europe.

These volcanic changes have produced conditions which are altering the political complexion of much of the continent. Country after country, in its effort to find some remedy for its ills, is clutching at straws in endeavoring to establish a government which will meet the new situation. The swing is heavily to the left, and much of it is Communist.

In some countries this search has been accompanied by violence. Problems After V-E Day Too

Thus when we have V-E day behind us we must plunge immediately into an even greater work than winning the war—and that will be the winning of the peace. We shall have to maintain order under conditions which invite trouble. We must help rehabilitate a Europe which is struggling with hunger and other privations, while its political houses are rocking.

And when we look to the Orient we can see political storms growing out of the Japanese war. Those will become more apparent as we approach V-J day in the Pacific. China is torn with an internal political strife between the Chinese Communists and the Chungking government under Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. Mighty India is pressing for self determination. We may expect other political developments, and all of them will be of moment not only to the Orient but to the western world.

So our rejoicing over V-E day should be tempered by the realization that a mighty work remains to be done. We can see difficulties developing here and there, but we have made a magnificent start and there is no reason for discouragement over the size of our task.

DISTRICT TIRE QUOTA IS SAME

The district's May passenger tire quota allocated to the Office of Price Administration by the Rubber Bureau of the War Production Board is little changed from April, when it was reduced 37 1/2 per cent from March because of a decline in civilian tire production, OPA announced today.

Passenger tires, including motorcycle tires, available for rationing in this 10-county area in May total 7,533 as against 7,575 in April.

Some increases over April allocations were granted in the truck and bus tire category and smaller increases in the tractor-implement category, but it is expected that heavier demands will offset these increases.

Only For Most Essential Use

The district's May quota for trucks and buses using tire size 8.25 and larger is 1,254 compared with 1,215 for April; for trucks and buses using tires 7.50 or smaller, 1,821, compared with 1,597. The May quota for tractor-implement tires larger than 7.50 is 247 compared with 162 allocated for April; tractor implement tires 7.50 or smaller, 388, compared with 289.

The scarcity of tires for civilian use is due to the continued heavy demands of the armed forces. Since demand in May is always considerably greater than in April, an unchanged allocation is, in effect, a reduction.

War price and rationing boards will be able to grant new tires to only the most essential drivers. Many drivers' applications will have to be denied and greater dependence must be placed on conservation, care and prompt recapping of present tires, and reduced speeds, OPA said.

IMPOSSIBLE TO GIVE ADEQUATE IDEA OF HORROR

By BEN McELWAY

(Associate Editor of the Washington Evening Star)

(Written for The Associated Press)

Paris, May 5—Members of a party of 18 newspaper and magazine editors and publishers are returning to the United States after a 12-day visit to France and Germany at Gen. Eisenhower's invitation, convinced that newspaper correspondents have been guilty of no exaggerated descriptions of German concentration camps. If their stories erred, it was on the side of understatement.

From what these newspapermen saw on their inspection trips to Camp Buchenwald, near Weimar, and Dachau, near Munich, it is impossible to describe conditions there in a manner that would give Americans any adequate conception of the things the editors saw.

Members of the party talked to many officers and soldiers of the veteran 45th Division, which liberated the Dachau camp, and were told that in two years of combat service they had seen nothing approaching what they had witnessed inside this camp. Their reaction was a burning hate for the Germans, unlike anything they felt for the soldiers who opposed them in battle. One GI with the 45th put it pretty well when he said: "I always thought they were exaggerating to make us hate the Krauts. Now I know these things are true." That sums up the conclusion of the editors.

Ran Out of Fuel

We went through the camp at Buchenwald more than a week after its liberation and in the interval it had been cleaned up to some extent by the Americans. We saw Dachau four days after its liberation and so frightened were the conditions of overcrowding, disease and death that the soldiers had little opportunity to do anything beyond making food and drugs available.

In a camp population of about 33,000, examination of a portion of the inmates revealed 800 cases of tuberculosis, 291 case of typhus and 115 of pneumonia, with more than 100 deaths each day.

The Germans had run out of coal for their incinerator at the camp and more than 1,000 corpses were stacked there. Col. G. J. Hathaway, 15th corps surgeon, said the prison inmates had been fed about one-fourth of the diet supposedly necessary to keep a man alive.

There were conflicting stories about sadistic practices in the camps and there were no eyewitnesses. From what we gathered from interviews, no eyewitnesses to such things survived.

Nazis Unpopular

But living under the camp conditions was in itself a form of torture, apparently designed to reduce gradually the strength and the spirit of the prisoners until they died a "natural death."

Thirty-four thousand out of a total of 125,000 at Dachau died between 1933 and 1942 had died "natural deaths" and 13,159 others have gone the same way since Jan. 1, 1945.

There was no attempt by the editors to suggest a form of punishment for German war criminals, but their observations would indicate that after this war it is going to be a hard thing to find a German who will admit he was a Nazi, believed in the Nazis or knew anything save rumor about the existence of the concentration camps.

COOL WEATHER SLOWS GREENS

Held back by the unusually cold weather, and in some cases frozen, green goods made a very spotty showing at the Farmers' Market this morning.

Asparagus was very scarce as most of merchants reported their plants frozen back by the heavy frost Wednesday morning. There will be no more asparagus for the majority of the growers until new shoots develop and mature for market.

Lettuce, onions, parsley, radishes and other spring greens also have been retarded by the cold weather, and the supplies of them on the stands disappeared quickly.

Buyers continued to make a steady and quick run on spring fryers and most of the dozen stands were sold out of the young chickens before 7 o'clock this morning. Eggs continued to sell at 42 cents per dozen.

GAS TAX SNARL MAY POSTPONE ADJOURNMENT

Harrisburg, May 5 (AP)—A Senate-House clash over allocation of the one-cent emergency gasoline tax today threatened to upset plans for immediate adjournment of the 1945 legislative session.

A joint conference committee sought to compromise differences on the amount of the tax to be earmarked for road work in municipalities, while the assembly cleaned up other business in a drive to conclude the session tonight.

There was a chance of recessing until Monday for the windup.

Major items remaining for action in addition to the gas tax were the compromise increasing teacher salaries and state school subsidies, freeing toll bridges and regulation of bituminous strip mining.

The Senate in its fourth straight session lasting until dawn sent to Governor Martin the Brunner stream cleanup bill, the administration housing and slum clearance program and three items in Martin's postwar construction set.

Housing Bills Pass

A $276,000,000 allotment for normal operations of government in 1945-47 was approved and went to the House for concurrence in changes.

Sen. George N. Wade, (R-Cumberland), and three others voted against one of the housing bills permitting life insurance companies operating in Pennsylvania to invest 10 per cent of their assets in development and redevelopment authorities.

The other housing bills went through unanimously after rejection of an amendment by Joseph N. Barr, (D-Allegheny), to permit a mayor or county commissioner to designate existing housing authority to be the redevelopment authority for a locality.

Pennroad Directors Considered Chargeoff

Wilmington, Del., May 5 (AP)—The possibility that the Pennsylvania Railroad might "charge off" the $15,000,000 against its excess profits tax" was considered by directors of Pennroad corporation in the proposed settlement of litigation between the two companies, Pennroad President Benjamin F. Pepper testified yesterday at a hearing in Chancery court.

The proposed $15,000,000 settlement, which is being protested by a group of stockholders, followed litigation on stockholders' charges that Pennsylvania was using Pennroad funds for its own purposes. Both Pennroad and the railroad agreed to the settlement.

Pepper, questioned by Joseph B. Kennan, attorney for several of the stockholders, was asked if he thought the settlement offer would have been made if the railroad did not have any excess profits in view.

COMPENSATION BILL

Harrisburg, May 5 (AP)—Senate acceptance of minor house amendments sent to Governor Martin legislation boosting maximum weekly benefits from $18 to $20 under Workmen's Compensation and Occupational disease acts. The upper branch refused concurrence on correctional changes involving administrative matters in the unemployment compensation bill providing similar increases and sent the measure to a conference committee for redrafting.

Leaves From Diary Of War Correspondent

By HAL BOYLE

With American Troops in Germany, May 3 (Delayed) (AP)—An American sergeant's reunion with his mother brought tears to the eyes of everybody in the little Czech border town of Barnau.

It made a major, a captain and a private with him weep, too.

Major Dan Riddle, of Marksville, La., had to go to Barnau and with him went Capt. Harry Grier, of Oxford, Pa., and a driver, Pvt. Tom Kearns, of Hartford, Conn.

"May I go along, too?" asked Sgt. Harry Alden, of Pelham, N. Y. "My family used to have a summer home there."

So they took him along and as they rode toward Barnau the quiet, black-haired sergeant told them his story—how he was born in Nuernburg of German-Jewish parents, how he came to the United States in 1938, became a citizen and joined the American Army.

Familiar Scenes

"Every year before 1938 I used to go to Barnau in the summer," he said. He became more excited as the jeep neared the little town.

"He remembered every turn in the road and every tree and hill," said Kearns. "He even showed us where he used to bicycle on Sundays with his girl friend."

"There it is! There is my house," the sergeant called out. He leaped from the jeep, ran up the steps and pounded on the front door.

A little old woman opened the door and greeted him casually and then peered closer.

"It is very queer," she said, uncertainly, "but you look very much like my grandson."

The News Spread Fast

"When she really found out Alden was her grandson she could hardly believe it," Kearns said. "She kept pounding him on the arm to see if he was real."

The sergeant learned that his mother was in town, helping the American troops, so Alden and his friends drove on into Barnau.

"The news had spread fast," said Capt. Grier. "Practically every window had someone in it, looking at us."

Major Riddle saw two women—one tall and stately—walking down the street, and on impulse, he backed the jeep nearer to them.

"The tall woman was Harry's mother, and when she saw him she cried out 'Hans! mein Jungel' and came running with open arms," said Kearns. "And that's when the crying started."

Everybody joined in because all the townspeople knew about Harry from his mother. She led her son up and down the streets, calling to the neighbors:

"I told you I had a son in the American Army. See? Here he is."

Harry's mother, who is German, was subjected to racial discrimination because she married a Jew. Before bombings destroyed her home in Nuernburg she had given shelter to a number of Jewish refugees from the Gestapo.

When the Americans approached Barnau, she persuaded the local Volksturners to lay down their arms and she went out and contacted the American patrols herself, leading them in to show there would be no resistance. They subsequently hired her as an interpreter.

PIERETTI, NAT FRESHMAN ACE, BEATS A'S 5-4

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Portland Bill Klepper moaned that Marino Pieretti was worth $50,000 when Washington drafted his ace pitcher for $7,500 last winter and today Clark Griffith of the Senators probably would agree.

Selection of the mid-sized right hander who won 26 games for the Beavers stirred up a rumpus during which the Pacific Coast league threatened to demand status as a third major league.

Nothing came of the threat and the big boys nixed a move to raise the draft price to $10,000 but Pieretti went right ahead making Klepper look good.

Apparently nobody else thought he was worth the $50 grand for he wasn't sold in the open market last season but he would bring plenty above the $7,500 ticket right now.

Second Victory

The little fellow who must have been standing on a soap box when they measured him as five foot seven, earned his second big time decision last night by hurling the Sens to a 5-4 edge over Philadelphia. Reliever Luther Knerr was the loser after Jesse Flores faded in the third.

Although the A's climbed on him for four in the first he regained his stuff and shut them out the rest of the way. With the score tied at 4-all in the fourth, Pieretti opened with a triple and romped across with the winning run on George Myatt's long fly.

The native of Maria Lucca, Italy, who now makes his home in San Francisco now boasts a 2-1 win-loss record. The only tilt he lost was in 13 innings to New York by a 2-1 margin a week ago.

Rain Stops Others

Manager Ossie Bluege hadn't allowed Pieretti much time to himself, hustling him in for a relief chore against New York three days after he had beaten Philadelphia in 12 innings April 19. The little fellow was back in the bull pen three days after his 13-frame loss to the Yankees, working an inning against Boston. Three days more found him making his third start.

In Pieretti and right fielder George Binks who was hitting at a fancy .317 clip, Griffith had two stand-out freshmen. Binks was tied with Buddy Hall of the A's for most hits in 19 and had stolen four bases of the Senators' total of 18, best in either league.

All other games in the major leagues yesterday were postponed.

Two Interstate Games Rained Out

(By The Associated Press)

The Trenton Spartans, who snapped league-leading Wilmington's winning streak last night, will battle the Blue Rocks today in the second game of their series at Wilmington.

The Spartans' 12 to 6 victory ended Wilmington's five game streak. It was the league's only game, with York at Hagerstown and Lancaster at Allentown rained out.

Today's schedule: Lancaster at Allentown and Trenton at Wilmington.

END

Spokane, Wash., (AP)—Since the start of the war, Percy Snyder, veteran Associated Press operator, has been moving pins across a large map of Europe in the Spokane AP office. As the Allies advanced the pins moved up from North Africa, down from the outskirts of Moscow, and in from Normandy. Today the pins were gone and there was only a scrap of paper over the heart of Germany. On it Snyder had written: "Thirty." (Newspaper parlance for "end.")

Three Openers In Eastern Loop Today

(By The Associated Press)

Three Eastern league home openers are on today's card, after rain and wet grounds washed up yesterday's four bills.

The Hartford Laurels, last year's pennant winners, make their home bow against the Albany Senators who topped them, 6-4, 4-0, in the season's first two games. Southpaw Warren Mueller is down for the Laurels' mound work.

Against him, Albany Manager James "Rip" Collins, father of a new first sacker born yesterday, planned to pit John Smith, double-A lefthander returning to organized ball after seven years.

League President Tommy Richardson is expected to arrive by plane in time for pre-game festivities.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 5 (AP)—So far this season nobody has fired a baseball manager—even unofficially—but any club owner who is contemplating such a move might do worse than get in touch with Paul Waner, who was just cut adrift by the Yankees.

... noted as a smart ball player, Waner has had the benefit of 23 years in the majors. And it's a sure thing that no player could put anything over on Paul in the matter of breaking training rules.

Although Vermont sports fans hope they'll have boxing and horse racing after the war, the legislature didn't even consider laws governing the two sports at its 1945 session, which means they can't come up before 1947. ### German Warships Resist Capture

(By The Associated Press)

Copenhagen, May 5 (AP)—German warships in Copenhagen's harbor opened fire with machineguns, anti-aircraft guns and cannon on several sectors of the city today and sporadic clashes broke out when Danish Patriots sought to disarm the Nazis.

The German cruisers Prinz Eugen and Nuernberg resisted the Patriots' efforts to disarm sailors aboard the ships, and many persons were killed or wounded.

At least 20 more persons were killed in the night through the city when the Patriots entered German barracks to disarm the Germans, and in clashes with Danish Nazis in the streets.

CANNERS TRIP FAIRFIELD 6-5

Scoring three runs in the last half of the fifth inning, Biglerville high school's unbeaten baseball team came from behind to capture its seventh straight victory Friday afternoon, noosing out Fairfield 6-5 in a game played at Biglerville.

The game was limited to five innings due to rain and wet grounds.

Fairfield went out in front with a run in the second inning but Biglerville pushed over three tallies in the fourth and apparently had the game sewed up. However, Fairfield took advantage of Shenk's wildness in the fifth and combined it with a double by Hollabaugh to gather four runs to go ahead 5-3.

The Canners put on a strong finish and tabbed three runs to clinch the decision.

Biglerville and Arendtville will clash Monday afternoon at Arendtville.

WILL DISCHARGE 2,000,000 MEN WHEN NAZIS QUIT

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The army plans to discharge 2,000,000 men beginning with the fall of Germany and to send 6,000,000 picked troops against Japan.

This was disclosed today by House Military committee members after a closed-door session with high army officials.

The men to be discharged, they said, will be those with the most dependents and the longest and most active service records. The army's point system, they reported, gives top weighting to dependency, followed by actual combat service, overseas duty, and overall length of service.

Inductions To Go On

Heretofore the weight to be given each of the factors in determining priority for discharges has been a closely-guarded secret.

Of the approximately 8,300,000 men now in the army, from 300,000 to 400,000 comprising the recently-created 15th Army will be left abroad to occupy Germany. Some 2,000,000 others will be discharged within a year after V-E Day, the speed of mustering out to depend largely on available shipping.

The actual reduction in the army's total strength, the committee was told, will be about 1,400,000 men, due to an estimated 600,000 in new inductions.

Many of those to be discharged are now on duty in the Pacific.

50 Superforts Hit Kyushu Airfields

Guam, May 5 (AP)—A force of approximately 50 B-29's bombed three southern Kyushu airfields late this afternoon in the day's third neutralization raid on the Japanese homeland.

Earlier between 150 and 200 Superfortresses attacked the Hiro naval aircraft plant at Kure, on Honshu island. It was the first attack on war industry at Kure.

Major Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of the 21st Bomber Command, said good results were obtained by visual, medium altitude bombing in the latest attack on Kyushu.

DERBY DAY BUT NO HORSE RACE

Louisville, Ky., May 5 (AP)—If these were ordinary times, the Kentucky hardboots would be out there early today moaning about the sloppy track at Churchill Downs. For this was supposed to be Derby Day in Louisville.

But these are anything but ordinary times and it makes little difference today whether the track is rare, medium or well-done. There won't be any Kentucky Derby this Saturday.

That was settled by the federal ban on horse racing, which Derby enthusiasts hope will be removed in time for a summer running of the historic event. Since its inaugural in 1875, the big race has been held every year at Churchill Downs.

However, this race-minded town has made arrangements for another Derby tonight—Turtle Derby—to observe the original 1945 date of the real thing.

Officials for the Turtle Derby will include Trainer Ben Jones, Steward Sam McMeekin, Jockey Doug Dodson, Legionsaire Sid Perree and many employees of Churchill Downs.

All the trimmings of the Kentucky Derby will be added and proceeds turned over to the Kentucky society for crippled children.

MINERS NOT TO GO BACK TO PITS ON U.S. ORDERS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 5 (AP)—

"No contract, no work" appeared to be the miners' answer today to Interior Secretary Ickes, announcement that work whistles will blow Monday morning in mines now under government control.

"The members of our union are determined not to return to work until a new agreement has been signed," said Felix Tomaszewski, acting president of the Glen Alden coal company local. "No contract, no work" is the way they feel about it.

Anthracite negotiations in the wage dispute which has tied up hard coal production were deadlocked yesterday in New York over the issue of $150 per day for underground travel time.

John Glick, president of the Lehigh Valley coal company local, said that even if a wage agreement is reached or orders are issued by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, unions would have difficulty in calling miners to week-end meetings.

Strikes among the 72,000 hard coal miners began with expiration of the old anthracite wage agreement April 30. Lewis has not responded to a war labor board order for extension of the contract pending negotiation of a new one, with any wage changes to be retroactive.

Ickes, in his capacity as solid fuels administrator, has taken possession of 363 anthracite companies, all in Pennsylvania. He also seized 33 strike-bound bituminous mines yesterday, bringing to 272 the number of government-controlled soft coal properties.

The bituminous mines seized yesterday have been idle since April 30 when the men failed to go back under a new contract. The other 239 soft coal mines under government control were seized Thursday and April 10. In the earlier seizures the men had balked at working without a regular contract.

SPRINGTIME MATING

To me there is nothing more beautiful than the seasonal mating of the many birds and animals in nature, or, I might say—the all out-of-doors. I speculate upon the choice of each bird who has selected the location for its nest. I wonder why that selection has been made, for I fear for the storm in such a place, or its openness to other dangers—but who am I to place my knowledge above one endowed with instinct from its Creator?

All day long I have been noting the busyness of a black squirrel, building its nest in a tall pine tree. I wish that I could take a peep into it, now that it is a large mass of dry leaves, perhaps a foot through, and more than that in height. For the last hour or so I noted this squirrel picking up fragments of old rags, dry grass, and leaves in its mouth and scampering up to that nest to furnish its carpet, so that it may be soft and comfortable to the expected young. Over and over again I watched this squirrel do the same thing. How I would like to take a peep after the newborn family arrives.

All about are to be noted the birds in pairs, mated for a family and happiness. And how interesting is each home that is built, and how interesting its location, as well. In the very tallest of all the tall trees behind my home, a nest of sticks has been built by two crows. I have strewn small rags and pieces of string here and there about the lawn as one of my inducements to "select a lot (or location) here and make your home!" And I have offered inducement to my little wren friend by erecting a tiny house that I made.

Each day I have watched the budding of the flowers, and their bursting into bloom. With their fragrance, and the sweet singing of so many of nature's songsters, the Springtime certainly was well arranged for love and mating—for man, beast and bird!

How happy each of us should be in such a beautiful world. How deeply we should appreciate those who have suffered and sacrificed to make it a free world for all. Nothing that any of us can do can adequately repay them for such a precious heritage.

Always speak well of other drivers you don't know and never speak ill of those you do.

One point too often overlooked by those who do service work on pistons is failure to consider carbon deposits in the ring grooves. The walls of ring grooves should always be straight, not V-shaped as in cases where carbon has accumulated. If the grooves are worn then they should be trued straight by putting them in a lathe. This calls for fitting with overwidth rings—usually about 1/32 oversize. Just one more warning: be sure to allow sufficient clearance at the ring gap. If this precaution isn't observed the ring expands and the ring will either be damaged or break.

Give It Both Tests

You might think it necessary to have special tools or gauges to detect a too low carburetor float level but the behavior of the engine is the best clue to this condition. First get the engine well warmed up and then put it to the test. Step on the gas and see if it picks up properly. If there is hesitation, popping back through the carburetor or a tendency for the car to "squat" the float level may be too low, but before making certain of this you will also want to give it one more test. Head for a hill and drive 35 miles an hour in second gear. This will be the equivalent of high speed in high. If the engine starts to falter you'll know it isn't getting enough gas because of the low float level. If, on the other hand, it operates normally the chances are that the engine's failure to accelerate is due to need for rebuilding the acceleration pump of the carburetor.

Failure to check sagging of car doors may be a gentle hint that the frame is out of alignment, especially if the car has previously been in a collision.

Many cases of dim headlighting can be traced to installing a new battery without checking to see if it is fully charged. Batteries discharge while in stock.

The plan of putting small holes in the bottom of the muffler to allow condensation to drain off isn't considered too satisfactory because any hole large enough to prevent slogging would be nearly as noisy as a leak in the muffler.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:

"I am just beginning to realize that a lot of trouble motorists are having with their cars these days is due to the fact that everything was adjusted for high speed driving. Now that we are holding to war-time speeds it is important to see that adjustments may be all out of key with present needs.

"Spark plugs are a good example. Many cars are equipped with extremely cool plugs that are causing hard starting and failure, especially when engines pump oil. Same with valve tappets. In pre-war days it was customary to give tappets two thousandths of an inch extra clearance to take care of valve stem expansion at high speed. Today this results in sloppy valve action, noise and loss of efficiency. Carburetion and timing changes may also be necessary to make a car more suited to present needs."

This Will Waste Gas

You'd hardly guess it but if your car is quite elderly the chances are that it is wasting gas because the spring of the accelerator pedal is weak. Effect of this is to permit your foot to bounce on the pedal when you travel over rough roads. This causes the throttle to be open more than necessary and for the acceleration pump to come into action when it should be dormant. A weak throttle return spring naturally is sluggish closing the throttle so that in gear shifting or when slowing down there is a decided lag in throttle control, with consequent waste.

Just about everything on the car needs so much servicing it's a pleasure to record that shock absorbers are an exception to the rule. I quote from the service manual issued by one of the car makers: "Shock absorbers do not require periodic service and, unless there is a known failure, they should not be disassembled for inspection or filling."

Of course this does not mean that the shocks should be neglected if there is any reasonable certainty that they are in bad shape. If they are leaking fluid you know they need attention. A little lube on their arms will often help, and the least you can do to help keep them working is to avoid driving too fast over rough roads. After all there's a limit to what a shock absorber can handle.

What Dims the Lights?

While it is true enough that dim lights are so often due to a weak battery, or perhaps to failure of the generator to deliver normal output, there are other causes of poor lighting which should always be considered. One is low voltage at the lamp sockets, which is due to excessive line losses. Another is corrosion of connections, or looseness, at the battery terminals. There may also be high resistance in the light switch.

While it is true that an unbalanced rear wheel and tire will make the car roll roughly many motorists wonder why it is that a condition of unbalance so often fails to result in rear tire wear. On a front wheel a tire with the same unbalance would wear cupped in short order.

The answer is that the unbalance is unable to cause a rear wheel to pivot. Also there is torque on the tread of the rear wheel due to the fact that it is powering the car.

Chapter 26

"All right, Hannah. Thank you. That's all for now. But you better stay around here today. I may want you again."

After the maid left the room Donohue finished a few hurried notes in his little book and got out his fingerprinting outfit. As he took Brenda's prints, he said:

"You must have heard the excitement going on in this room, Mrs. Blair. Especially if Miss Norman was screaming and shouting the way Hannah said she was."

"Hannah is right. I couldn't help but hear her. She and my husband were quarreling but I got out of the apartment without their knowing I was here."

"Did Miss Norman threaten your husband?"

"She did. She said, 'I'll kill you if you don't come across—damn you.' There was more—but that I heard distinctly."

"Humm—" With this unilluminating exclamation he finished his fingerprinting and disappeared into the bathroom where Brenda heard him opening and closing cabinet doors—pushing things around—evidently taking more fingerprints.

Left alone in the living room, Brenda felt the intolerable burden of the last few hours lightening a little. It was a relief to tell the officer of the quarrel here last night and to have Hannah's story absolutely corroborate all she said. Tom's death had left her shaken, stunned by the shock of his dying. Then Francine's horrible accusation had filled her world with fear and a new suspicion. Now all that was over. Donohue knew the truth and whatever happened he could not in any way involve her in Tom's death.

Suddenly she heard her name called in a sharp peremptory voice that shattered the silence of the room like the sharp crack of breaking glass. The Lieutenant was looking at her and she could tell by the hard, bright glitter of his eyes that something had happened.

"Mrs. Blair, do you know anything about your husband's actions the day following the robbery at Humberts?" he demanded.

"No, Lieutenant. I do not. He spent the afternoon on Central Beach and in this apartment. The day of the robbery and the day after he came home suffering from too much sun. But all of that, you know."

He looked at her sharply. "I hope you are telling the truth, Mrs. Blair," he said cryptically.

He walked over to the telephone but before he put out his hand to take up the receiver he turned quickly and continued in a level voice:

"I might as well tell you frankly, Mrs. Blair. I do not like your husband's death coming right on top of that robbery in your department at Humberts." His words were menacing. Brenda stared at him.

"Are you crazy?" She barely whispered the words. But the sharp sars of the Lieutenant caught them. He shook his head slowly and his words were very deliberate.

"No, Mrs. Blair, I'm not crazy—I'm just getting and stating facts. There is a definite connection between your husband's death and the robbery in your department in the store. I'm convinced of that now. . . . Perhaps Francine Norman wasn't so cock-eyed after all."

He dialed a number. "Put the Coroner on, please." There was a pause, then he exclaimed:

"Oh, hello, John. This is Donohue. Last night Dr. Harrington filled out a death certificate for Thomas Blair. He stated in that certificate the cause of death was heart failure. I'm not satisfied. I want you to take over officially right away. There's no time to lose. There must be an autopsy this afternoon."

Tom Blair had been murdered. At six o'clock Donohue telephoned Christopher and told him the autopsy showed conclusively that death was due to an overdose of nitro-glycerine administered by "person or persons unknown."

"It could not be suicide," Donohue said before Christopher could ask the question. "A heart case like Blair who carried his kit of medicine with him all the time in case of an attack, would never in his senses take a terrific dose like that. They found enough to kill two men. I'm going right over to see Mrs. Blair."

"It must be wonderful to know all the answers all the time," Christopher thought grimly as he slammed down the receiver. "Some day that guy's going to ride to such a fall it may knock some brains into his thick head—now I must get to Brenda before he does."

"There's an extra dollar in it for you," he shouted at the taxi driver as he stopped his car in the middle of Washington street—"If you make Croton place in five minutes."

"I don't want to get a ticket," the man began. But something in Christopher's frowning preoccupation made him suddenly decide to drive instead of argue. . . . Christopher ran into the lobby a few minutes later to find to his intense relief that Donohue had not yet arrived. Then he was talking to Brenda—telling her in short, sharp sentences the news she had never expected to hear. Her white, stricken face showed him how great a shock it was to her.

"Listen, Brenda," Christopher concluded in a low, tense voice. "Donohue will be here any minute—when he questions you, be very careful. He won't tell you, but anything you say now, he'll use against you later if he can. . . ."

NEW TAX PLAN

Harrisburg, May 5 (AP)—Local taxpayers who pay current levies on time are permitted to escape penalties on delinquent taxes under the Stonier-Reidenbach bill passed 34-11 by the Senate and sent Governor Martin. Payment of back taxes would be allowed in three equal installments over three years.

Riding With Russel

There was no driving torque. Apparently the rear wheels danced, though they could not actually pivot.

Around the Circuit

The starter-motor circuit on any car is supposed to be one of the simplest but any way you look at it the current still has to travel over quite a variety of courses and run the risk of losing much of its pep through resistance and poor connections. When you press the starter button or pedal current flows from one of the battery posts through the heavy starter cable, then through the starter switch, through the starter itself, through the frame of the car which serves as a return path for the high amperage current, and finally through the flexible ground cable to the opposing post of the battery. The actual current flow is around 200 amperes. The more resistance there is in this circuit the harder the battery must work and the slower the start.

What's Your Trouble?

Q. I note that the front tires of my car are somewhat scuffed. What particular misalignment would account for this? J. L. D.

A. This could be due to excessive toe-in, or toe-out. Another thing to check is a bent steering arm. Loose wheel bearings cause scuffing, as does underinflation. Better consult an alignment man.

Q. I recently relined the brakes of my car but the job has gone bad already. Have had a lot of experience in mechanical matters and thought I had done everything just right. Trouble now is impossibility of obtaining equalization. K. McB.

A. My thought is that you failed to consider the grease retainers. Lube has worked out on one of the brake shoes and it is sticking. I think you should have replaced all the grease retainers. If you do this now and replace that one sticky shoe you'll be all set.

Q. Looking over my car I find that the crankcase ventilating system has two small pipes from the valve compartment. One goes to the intake manifold, the other to the air intake of the carburetor within the air cleaner. What is the purpose of this? G. W. R.

A. In this system excess crankcase fumes are drawn back into the engine. With the throttle closed the suction is via the manifold mainly, but when the throttle is open most of the vapor is sucked into the carburetor and thence into the engine.

Q. The speedometer pointer on my car flickers. Never noticed this before. J. N.

A. This may be due to the speedometer cable shaft not having steady torque. I suggest a complete new cable.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of the Gettysburg Times and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, May 5 (AP)—In view of fast-moving developments in the European war zones, the networks' schedules for the week-end have been set up to make possible incorporation of special broadcasts from overseas or otherwise. This was in keeping with plans previously made for cancellation or considerable alteration of the entire list where warranted.

Instead of a combined network broadcast as in previous drives, the radio introduction to the Seventh War Loan is to be a separate program by each chain at the same time on the eve of the campaign's start a week from Sunday night.

The time selected is 8:30. So far two of the shows have been announced. That on NBC is to originate mainly from Washington, where Bob Hope and his crew are to perform from the Ullie sports arena.

As its contribution, MBS is to repeat Arch Oboler's "Strange Morning." It is a documentary drama dealing with V-E Day.
